

I oppose the adoption of the Broadcast over Power Lines proposal that is currently before the FCC. The information that I have gathered on this subject indicates that, at the present, the state of the art for this technique is immature and that significant amounts of spurious radiation are transmitted into short wave frequencies. Undoubtedly this will cause significant interference to existing services. I believe that more development work should be done to eliminate this problem before this technology is put into service.